

Being a staff governor is a role that I am both proud of and challenged by. Understanding the mechanisms behind how the school is organised and the fluidity of how it runs is something that intrigues me and is a reason why I decided to volunteer myself for the role of staff governor. As with teaching, learning is constantly taking place whilst being involved in the governance of the school. To reflect and improve and wanting the best for our school is paramount to me. I also feel I have lots to offer the governing body over a sustained period of time, particularly in relation to the school improvement plan.

I love sport and my current role as PE coordinator allows me to see the enjoyment and benefits that are gained through sport by our children. Life-long learning that can take place through sport link hand-in-hand with the school values: self-control, patience and love to name a few. Obviously the joy that comes from sport is very powerful and victory tastes even sweeter when you have experienced how to lose. Bringing success through sport to St John's, as well as increasing the provision for all children of sport (including days such as Fit Friday), is something that I am passionate about and has been shown over the last few years with success seen across many sports. We, as a school, are striving to increase the provision of sport and foster a fit and healthy lifestyle for all...as well as winning a few competitions along the way!
